

These tweets are from an event at the University of Sydney on 6 April, 2016, celebrating the career of Professor Les Irwig, of the Sydney School of Public Health.

-
- The image shows a vertical scroll of six tweets from Melissa Sweet (@croakeyblog) on Twitter. Each tweet features a profile picture of Melissa Sweet, her name, handle, and time posted. The tweets contain text about an event honoring Prof Les Irwig, with various hashtags and mentions. Interaction icons (reply, retweet, like, view counts, and more options) are visible below each tweet.
- Tweet 1: Posted 19h. Text: "Colleagues, friends and family have gathered to pay respect to & celebrate long #publichealth career of Prof Les Irwig @SydneySPH". 1 like.
 - Tweet 2: Posted 19h. Text: "Public health is social justice" - apt introduction to event honouring Prof Les Irwig at @SydneySPH. 7 likes.
 - Tweet 3: Posted 18h. Text: "A methodologist's methodologist": celebrating #publichealth career of Prof Les Irwig @SydneySPH.
 - Tweet 4: Posted 19h. Text: Celebrating career of Prof Les Irwig, a photographer who loves trees. (Also an acclaimed epidemiologist & teacher/mentor) @SydneySPH.
 - Tweet 5: Posted 19h. Text: Celebrating an academic mentor of scientific integrity, methodological rigour: Prof Les Irwig, "a national treasure" @SydneySPH. 1 like.
 - Tweet 6: Posted 19h. Text: Hearing about epidemiology as a tool for #publichealth & social justice, celebrating Prof Les Irwig @SydneySPH #asbestos #SDOH #Racism. 2 likes.

Melissa Sweet @croakeyblog · 18h

Prof Les Irwig reflecting on more than 30 years at @SydneySPH #epidemiology #publichealth #collaborations

Melissa Sweet @croakeyblog · 18h

The career & contributions of Prof Les Irwig likened to a tree: many branches, enriching the lives of others @SydneySPH

Melissa Sweet @croakeyblog · 18h

And here is Smart Health Choices, one of Prof Les Irwig's many collaborations for #publichealth @SydneySPH #FreeBook sydney.edu.au/medicine/publi...

Melissa Sweet @croakeyblog · 18h

Hearing a lot about Socratic Teaching at celebration of Prof Les Irwig
@SydneySPH criticalthinking.org/pages/socratic...

Melissa Sweet @croakeyblog · 18h

“Changing quality of peoples’ lives by changing the quality of their thinking”:
tribute to Prof Les Irwig, researcher & teacher @SydneySPH

HEARD@UNSW @HEARDatUNSW · 15h

@croakeyblog @SydneySPH @andrewhayen Pleased to be present to celebrate
#LesIrwig an inspiring mentor committed to #socialJustice & #equity

View conversation

Andrew Hayen @AndrewHayen · 15h

Great also to hear about Les' early work in Sth Africa from @HEARDatUNSW

Melissa Sweet @croakeyblog

Celebrating an academic mentor of scientific integrity, methodological rigour: Prof Les Irwig, “a national treasure” @SydneySPH

Ian McPhee

@IGas2

Following

@croakeyblog @SydneySPH A marvellous teacher who introduced me to the mysteries, language, strengths & pitfalls of the systematic review

Professor Les Irwig

Career Celebration

